

ABSTRACT

Systems and methods are disclosed for responding to an intellectual property (IP) search by receiving a search query for IP; identifying a plurality of IP documents responsive to the search query; assigning a score to each document based on at least the citation information; and organizing the documents based on the assigned scores.